The shot was rescheduled, for

Patient Goes Berserk and Kills Doctor

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A mental patient who went berserk and killed a psychiatrist Friday was fighting his way back to consciousness today from a semi-coma, teargas, and a large, self-administered dose of sedative pills, a hospital spokesman said.

The man, William Pola, 27, of nearby Wilmerding, made a voluntary visit to the Leech Farm Veterans' Hospital Friday after-bership in the economic community was certain to get a full airing during the talks set to begin late today when Macmillan arrives for an overnight visit.

Negotiations going on in Brussels between Britain and the six Common Market members have advanced a step with British agreement to apply Common Market tariffs to industrial goods from three Commonwealth countries:
Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

The goods now enter Britain under a lower preferential tariff system. De Gaulle has been reported opposed to any terms for Britain's entry into the economic community that would continue British economic preferences for the Commonwealth family.

The two leaders were expected to hash over other problems before Macmillan flies back to Britain Sunday.

One issue facing De Gaulle and Macmillan is the proposal for a European political union which the six market members have been studying as an annex or reinforcement to their economic community.

De Gaulle has been holding out for a loose confederation which would preserve national sovereignities.

French officials believe Britain can much more readily join that sort of political union than the supranational type currently urged by Belgium and Holland.

Belgium and Holland reportedly are willing to settle for a looser form of union if Britain joins.
From the Benelux viewpoint, British membership would bring the union into better balance and remove the threat of French-German hegemony.

Impossible Today,
Billy Graham Says

CHICAGO (AP)—Billy Graham told teen-agers in a near capacity audience of 35,000 Friday night that it is almost impossible for them to live a clean life under today's conditions.

"Never before has there been a period in the history of the world," he said, "when the sex stimulus has been thrust at us so often and from every angle."

Graham has addressed 69,000 in the first three nights of his 19-day
Chicago crusade.

The evangelist cautioned teenagers against hasty marriages and immorality.

"One of every 3½ marriages ends in divorce, and if you're a teen-ager your chances for happiness are only one in two," he said.

"Let God choose the right one for you and live clean."

"Sex is a God-given instinct, but immorality is wrong. God will give you the power and strength to restrain yourselves. But it will cost you, and you may not be willing to pay the price."

Marshall Held Estes Scheme Violated Law

Dead Man's Report To Lawyer Disclosed At Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry H. Marshall, an Agriculture Department official whose death is being investigated by a Texas grand jury, told Billie Sol Estes' lawyer that the financier's scheme to get cotton allotments was illegal, says an agriculture report.

Marshall was found dead, shot five times, last June 3. He was chief of production adjustment in Texas for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the Agriculture Department.

He was the first federal official to investigate Estes' operations under U.S. cotton programs. A grand jury is trying to determine if Marshall was murdered and if his death was connected with the Estes case.

Report to Attorney

A confidential report, dated Oct. 27, 1961, disclosed Friday that J. Taylor Allen, an official of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, had told investigators that before his death Marshall had advised Estes' lawyer the cotton allotment plan was against regulations.

If Estes' attorney now says that Marshall approved his scheme, he is not stating a fact, the report quotes Allen as alleging.

The indicted financier had evolved a plan to grow more price-supported cotton by getting more government allotments. Estes sold land to cotton farmers who had lost their land but still had allotments. In turn the farmers leased the land back to Estes and transferred to him their allotments.

The report describes Estes as saying he had depended on his lawyer, John P. Dennison, and his associates to insure that his allotment plan was within law. It states he believed they had followed the advice of the Stabilization Service officials.

2 Balloonists on Involuntary Trip Over Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Two young balloonists from the University of Minnesota, who said they hadn't planned to go up at all, found themselves soaring 11,500 feet above Nashville.

Tracy Barnes, former sky-diving paratrooper, said he and his partner, Lee Becker, were demonstrating the balloon to friends at a South Nashville residence Friday.

"A gust of wind came along and knocked the balloon loose from the rope moorings and suddenly we were going up," he said.

They weren't unprepared for flight, however.

"We had on parachutes, but we didn't have any oxygen, and I knew that if we reached 15,000 feet we would have to bail out. I was telling Lee how to use a chute at the same time we were struggling with the valve."

The valve that controls the flow of hot air into the nylon balloon causing it to rise wouldn't close. When at 11,500 feet they finally got it turned off, their descent was so rapid they had to turn it on again to slow the drop.

Navy Explodes Mystery Barrel

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A mysterious barrel lying on the beach 15 yards from the mansion of President Kennedy's father was found to contain enough explosives to flatten everything within 50 yards.

Navy demolition experts said the object was a 55-gallon drum of metallic sodium which, if rain water had beaten into its open top, would have exploded. A brisk shower fell ½ hours after the Navy men had arrived.

The Naval Ordnance Facility team replaced the lid, took the drum out to sea and exploded it with a time device. As the sodium and the sea mixed together, a continuous, rumbling explosion ensued for about three minutes.

Investigators said the drum was a commercial container that might have fallen off a ship and drifted ashore. A similar drumful of sodium was found Tuesday at Key Largo, south of Miami, and was exploded safely.

Peril Small But Exists, Reports Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fallout from nuclear testing has slightly increased the health risks faced by Americans, the Federal Radiation Council says.

Birth defects in future generations are likely because of radiation released by test detonations, the council said in a report made public Friday. And, for persons now alive, the report said, fallout may mean an increased danger of leukemia or bone cancer.

But it added: "Compared to the number of these same adverse biological effects occurring wholly apart from testing, the additional cases that might be caused by testing are a very small quantity."

"We expect there will be some genetic effects; other effects such as leukemia and cancer are more speculative and may not occur at all."

If fallout causes additional cases of leukemia, the council said, the individual American stands at the most a chance of 1 in 100,000 of developing the disease because of it.

Risk Called Small

And if some cases of bone cancer can be blamed on fallout, his maximum risk is estimated as 1 in 300,000.

As for hereditary damage, the maximum risk for an infant born to Americans now alive is one in a million, the council said.

Data on which the report is based were turned over to President Kennedy before he gave the signal for a U.S. atmospheric test series now under way in the Pacific.

Possible Genetic Effects

By genetic damage, the council said, it meant conventional malformations, blindness, deafness, muscular dystrophy, and mental diseases.

"In addition to the gross defects, the council said, "there may be an unknown but probably a considerably larger number of mutations with less obvious effects such as minor physical abnormalities, mild disease, impairment of physiological functions and reduced resistance to infection or other stresses of life."

"Part of this damage will result in a lowered probability of survival at various ages," it said.

But the report emphasized that "whatever the genetic effects of fallout radiation from weapons testing through 1961 may be, the total effect will certainly be considerably less than that occurring inescapably from background radiation."

Present Hazards

In publishing its estimates on fallout hazards, the council pointed out that the current leukemia rate in the United States is 7 cases per 100,000 persons and that of bone cancer is 1.1 per 100,000 persons.

The report said: "Even a very small proportion of affected individuals will, in a very large population for a long period of time, amount to an impressive total number of individuals."

The figures in the report added up to this picture:

1. In the next 70 years, fallout from the tests through 1961, might cause from zero to 2,000 cases of leukemia in the United States. This would still be only a small fraction of the 840,000 cases of leukemia from all causes estimated to occur during such a span.

2. In the next 70 years in the United States, between zero and 700 cases of bone cancer might result from the fallout.

3. In all future generations in the United States, anywhere from 200 to 5,000 cases of "gross physical or mental defects" might result from the fallout and between 400 and 10,000 additional cases from radioactive carbon 14.

Applications Speed Bell's Palsy Recovery

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I have Bell's Palsy. It started with a mild ear-ache and watery right eye, then a sort of numbness across my cheek bone. Why do the tears from my eye burn so much? How long does Bell's Palsy last, and what can I do for it? — M. J.

Your description is quite typical of the way Bell's Palsy sometimes starts. Some cases, however, are much more painful than others, and the numbness is preferable.

The ailment is the result of a disorder of the facial nerve, and it can be caused by infection, injury, from surgery in the mastoid area, a generalized illness such as diabetes, and (some believe) from such things as cold, since many cases seem to follow exposure to a cold draft. I doubt whether cold does it alone, but it may trigger a case that is ready to start anyway.

Bell's Palsy usually comes on suddenly but doesn't always depart the same way. I regret to say. Duration varies: Some cases clear up in a matter of weeks, some take many months or more.

Hasten Recovery

Recovery may be hastened by warm applications to the face. Vitamin B, massage, electrical stimulation and other forms of physiotherapy that your doctor may prescribe.

Because the eyelid (this ailment comes on one side of the face usually) does not close completely, the eye tends to dry, and the stinging is the result of the body trying to protect it by a flow of tears. It is important to protect the eye, especially at night. Your doctor may suggest moistening the eye with a bland oil, and often a patch is worn to protect the eye from injury.

In particularly painful cases that go on and on, specialists sometimes paralyze the nerve temporarily by injections, which sometimes is referred to as "exchanging the pain for numbness."

In extreme cases, sometimes the nerve is cut for the same purpose, but this leaves permanent numbness and is a last resort rather than an early one.

Be thankful that your case is not one of the extremely painful ones, and keep after the measures that speed recovery.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes brown spots on the skin when in the 60's? I also get red spots, as big as pin heads. People ask me what they are and I can't tell them. Is it lack of vitamins? — MRS. R. J.

Both spots are common enough, and harmless — and if you look carefully, you'll see that others have the same things. Brown spots of pigment accumulation late in the skin, especially among people who have been much exposed to sun and wind. Pin-head red spots are accumulations of tiny capillaries, or very small blood vessels. They are just skin blemishes that don't really matter. No, they are caused by a lack of vitamins.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have one of those wonderful but stubborn husbands who insists on me and the children seeing the doctor at the slightest pain.

For three months he has had a cold that has gotten progressively worse — we go through this every winter. The new problem is that he has been perspiring profusely.

Please tell me what to do. My husband keeps asking me what's wrong with him. — MRS. J. D.

Your husband ought to see his doctor and have a chest X-ray. Tuberculosis, although gradually being suppressed, is not an obsolete disease. A lingering cough from a "winter cold" can be a sign of lung cancer or some lesser disease.

It's ridiculous that a man can be so solicitous about his family and yet refuse to go to the doctor himself. He should, and soon, for his family's sake.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE THE 'BIG BOSS'?

YES ☐ NO ☐

No, probably not. There are some things about it that you would like, such as the salary, the prestige, the big house and what goes with it. Here are some things you would not like: the continuous responsibility, so that you never really get away from your work; the pressures on you by people who want something from you; the amount of time that you would have to spend away from your family; the headaches and annoyances of keeping others in line; the fighting off of subordinates who want your job or are jealous of you; and the constant conflict with rivals. No, most people would really rather be what they are.

A group is bound together by common interests!

True. To some extent. But some social psychologists believe that the most important bond is a common way of looking at things. To some extent, they all take the common assumptions that make group life and communication possible. The important realities of social life are what seem to us all to be self-evident. It is when these are threatened that we become most anxious — and with good reason. For a broader look at this problem, send for the pocket pamphlet, "Getting Along With People." It's yours for 10 cents and a stamped, return envelope sent to this column, in care of this newspaper.

Good Sacrifice Cuts Loss If Hand Belongs to Foe

Now that National Softhead Week is over we can return to our Golden Rule for bridge players: Do unto others. Just a simple three-word rule.

Vigorous sacrifice bidding ranks high on the list of things to do. A good sacrifice reduces your loss when the hand "belongs" to the enemy. On rare occasions, a sacrifice may even turn your loss into a profit.

Value of Hand

Before you can sacrifice sensibly you must know what the opponent's hand is worth. A game is worth about 500 points; a non-vulnerable slam about 1,000 points; a vulnerable slam, close

Double All Pass

Opening lead — ♦ 6

At least one opponent must guess whether to double or bid on, and where there is guesswork there is hope.

Opening lead — 6 of Hearts

East's opening bid of three hearts promised about six or seven playing tricks with no defensive strength. East could count on winning five hearts and a diamond.

South didn't enjoy bidding three spades, but he couldn't afford to pass. He might make a game if his partner held as little as the king of spades and the ace-jack of clubs. Still, if West had those cards, South might go for quite a ride at three spades doubled.

West now made a startling jump to seven hearts. East had announced that he had no defense, and West couldn't hope to take two tricks in his own hand. Hence there was good reason to believe that South could make a small slam, and there was some hope that one of West's queens would stop a grand slam.

A jump to six hearts would not work nearly so well. North would bid six spades, and then it would be up to West to sacrifice at seven hearts. West would gain nothing by the delay, but the opponents would gain quite a bit. North would then be able to pass seven hearts, having already shown his great strength. South would bid seven spades only if he had extra strength; otherwise he could double seven hearts.

Pressure

The immediate jump to seven hearts put all the pressure on North. He couldn't pass since he had never shown his tremendous strength. He had to decide then and there, singlehanded, whether or not to bid a grand slam.

Please don't write in to say that North could have doubled seven hearts with safety. He knew that he could beat the grand slam in hearts. He could have collected 700 points by fairly normal defense, but he wasn't satisfied with so small an amount.

So North tried for the grand slam, and West's sacrifice produced a big profit. East doubled, hoping to get a club opening lead, but West couldn't tell which unbid suit to lead. Everything worked out well, however, since South had to lose a club trick sooner or later.

HUMIDITY TESTER

Pin a cardboard pointer to a board as shown. Glue one end of a long human hair to the rear of the pointer, the other end to the board. The hair absorbs moisture as the humidity goes up, and lengthens, thus lowering the pointer.

Caution

Before you set your jaw and stride off to the bridge table to fling sacrifices into an opponent's teeth, take a look at the teeth across the table. Do you want to keep looking at them, or would you rather cut your losses short? Don't sacrifice vigorously when you have a weak partner against two strong opponents. Let the rubber come to its natural end. Ditto if you have a strong partner who objects to sacrifice bids.

One other tip. Sacrifice only when you're quite satisfied with the trump suit. The bad days, may come, the rain will pelt down, but there are no cloud-bursts when you have a long, strong trump suit.

Get There First

The best kind of sacrifice is made in advance, before the opponents hid their game or slam.

Reward for Car Is Privilege of Taking Prom Date Home Last

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Prom time is coming up so please settle something for a bunch of teen-agers who can't agree on a very important matter.

When a guy has a car and invites a buddy or two to double or triple date who gets picked up first and who gets taken home first? This bugs the girls, especially, because nobody wants to be taken home first. They consider it some sort of an insult.

You can't imagine how much trouble we've been having over this problem. Please print in your column exactly how it should be done. We will accept your word as law. — Tooth and Toenail

Dear Toenail: When all the kids live in the same part of town, it's simple. When they are scattered it can become a problem.

It's sensible to pick up and drop off kids in a logical manner — which means cutting down on mileage wherever possible.

One rule must be observed, however, regardless of distance. Every fellow must pick up and take his own date home.

Roughly it goes like this: The fellows are picked up first, then the driver's date, then the next closest gal, then the third gal.

On taking kids home: The gal who lives the furthest from the scene of the prom gets dropped first, next her date, then the second gal and next her date.

The driver drops off his date last. This is one of the rewards for having wheels.

DEAR ANN: I just read the letter from "Tired." She was well-rested compared with me. You said her husband should give her a hand by bathing the kids, helping with the dishes, etc. Yeah? Did you ever try to get a lazy bum off his back porch and loose from a can of beer?

I've been married 19 years to the same type and when I look back at how foolish I was I could kick myself. For a stretch of several years, I started my day at 3 a.m. — took my husband to work, came home, woke up, fed and dressed two children and drove them to the baby-sitters. I had to be at my job by 7:30 a.m.

I finished work at noon. My beloved was off at 2 p.m. He'd come home and get the car, go off to a bar and that's where his paycheck went. I had every Sunday off, to "fiddle around," as he called it. I washed, ironed, baked, did the yard work and tried to pay some attention to the children.

After too many years of being a dumbbell, I solved my problem by quitting my job. When my husband knew he no longer had a crutch to lean on he learned to walk by himself. We don't have a spare dime now, but who cares? I feel like — A New Person

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in an office with approximately thirty girls. One of the girls is getting married soon. The bride-to-be sent one wedding invitation which was addressed to "All the girls in the office." The invitation was posted on the bulletin board.

Much has been said around the office as to whether or not this was in good taste. We divided into three camps: Those who think it was a new low in vulgarity, those who feel it was perfectly all right, and those who are undecided.

We all want to know what you think. — Sally

Dear Sally: A mass invitation to a wedding is no invitation at all. In my opinion it's in the same category with that tired, empty phrase, "Why don't you come over to see us sometime?" Each guest goes to a wedding as an individual. Therefore each guest should be accorded the courtesy of a separate invitation.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHO NEEDS A COAT IN THE SUMMER?

Q. I have a four year old Boxer that sheds more than any dog I have ever had. I would appreciate any help you can give me with this problem. Evelyn Larkin, Salem, Mass.

A. There are a number of conditions which could cause a dog to shed hair excessively. A veterinarian's examination might disclose the cause and treatment might help. On the other hand, all the lotions and potions in the world will not interfere with a natural process. And, shedding hair is a natural process for dogs at least twice a year. They grow a new coat to keep warm in winter and shed that coat for a lighter one for summer. Any interference with this process could lead to trouble by disturbing the dog's heat regulating mechanism. Unless it's really excessive, I'm afraid that you'll just have to accept nature and keep on brushing and sweeping as long as he's kept in the house.

The Execution of Eichmann

If ever capital punishment was justified, it was in the hanging of Adolph Eichmann by the state of Israel.
The decision by the court in turning down Eichmann's appeal certainly reflected world opinion. "Even as there is no word in human speech to designate the deeds of the appellant, so there is no punishment in human laws that would fit in its gravity the guilt of the appellant. . . We know only too well how utterly inadequate this death sentence is as compared to the millions of deaths in most diverse ways he inflicted upon his victims."

What Is a Newspaper?

The recent action in which majority stockholders took over the management in Green Bay of what has been our "sister" paper for 42 years has given us cause to reflect about what is the nature and the responsibility of the modern American newspaper in today's world.
First and foremost, a newspaper must give to its readers factual, unbiased news. In today's confused world this also must include what has come to be called "interpretive reporting" but what is really reporting the news in depth with the writer's opinions coming through primarily in his choice of what is important enough to stress.
Second, a newspaper must give its advertisers an opportunity to expect a reasonable return from the money they have spent to advertise products or services, and assistance in how to get that reasonable return.
Third, a newspaper must attempt to assume some measure of leadership in its community. This can be exhibited by editorial backing and promotion of community drives and community projects. It also can be shown most effectively, and in a way which only a newspaper can demonstrate, by "depth" articles on education, welfare, health, highways, parking, planning and other subjects which should be of concern to those who live in a community and pay for it.
And fourth, the newspaper traditionally has been almost the conscience of a community.

Revise SEATO

A bipartisan group of Congressmen toured Southeast Asia last fall and recently issued a report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee that bears review by the British and French as well as by Asians and Americans. The major gist of the report is that SEATO, as now constituted, is actually more of a threat to security in the area than a defense.
SEATO was an attempt, mainly at the urging of the late John Foster Dulles, to provide for the Asian area the same sort of defense unit that NATO successfully provides in the Atlantic. But from the beginning, SEATO was a weak sister because of regulations. A unanimous vote of the members is required for any positive action. Members are pledged only to take whatever action they can according to their own constitutions in case of attack upon any other member. And Taiwan is specifically excluded from any of the agreements.
So far SEATO has been only a discussion group, meeting with fanfare and trumpets and going home without accomplishing anything. Obviously it can't provide any real leadership because of the need for unanimous decision. But the Congressional report also points to another serious flaw.
"As viewed in South Asia, SEATO's weakness stems from the lack of support of Britain and France. . . The British recently concluded a sale to Communist China of commercial aircraft capable of conversion to military use. This itself is indicative of the British lack of concern for the increased security of the area."
The lack of British and French support was obvious at the meeting in the spring of 1961 when SEATO decided not to do anything about protecting Laos. It was mann was a beast and somehow that seemed to put him outside the law reserved for the rest of us. But the essence of a world maintained in peace and justice by law and order is that such justice cannot be a matter of public opinion, rule by force or majority.

Eichmann deserved to hang if man can be the judge at all in the matter of taking life from a human being. But the state of Israel's struggle to become a nation deserved better than the means employed to bring Eichmann to trial.
Perhaps, as we view the rule of monsters during Nazi Germany's years' of power, the horror of Communist control and the massacres in Algeria, we must conclude that the world still is too far removed from humane civilization to decide that the ends cannot justify the means. But it is only through the upholding of law in the most unpopular cases that justice progresses.
Eichmann was hung as he certainly deserved. But what of the orderly progress toward a world of law?

munity. No other medium can so well and extensively expose the tendencies toward inefficiency or even dishonesty which show up now and then at all levels of government. As the famed folksy columnist Mr. Dooley wrote years ago, it is the modern newspaper's duty to "comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable."
In our opinion, to fulfill these responsibilities a newspaper has to be controlled by people who are part of the community in which it has its widest circulation. In a few cases chain newspapers have accomplished this, aim by hiring local people to run everything about a newspaper except the account books and stock transfers. Many times good, big newspapers have been able to engage local correspondents ably to represent their segment of population.
But in studying the newspapers which have folded in the last few years it is apparent that those which have what can only be termed a resident's approach are those which survive. There are notable exceptions, particularly the "national" type newspapers with their tremendous editorial products in the way of national and international reporting. But these do not take the place of the community newspapers unless the latter lose by default.
A free press is a particularly American institution. At its best it provides leadership and even inspiration as well as help to a community; in a larger sense it belongs to and is a part of a community.

apparent that neither the French nor English had any idea of sending troops. They encouraged some sort of coalition government in Laos, such as has been attempted without success ever since.
The French still are uninterested in an Asia they lost. But the British have indicated concern. They were instrumental in the continued and successful fight of the Malaysians against Communist guerrillas over a seven-year period. They have offered air support to troops in Thailand if requested.
The Congressional report says that the United States is the only nation capable of supplying the leadership needed in Southeast Asia to keep the area from falling to Red aggression. This probably is quite accurate. But in providing leadership we do not have to assume all the responsibilities of fighting the battles. We should encourage the Asian people who are dead set against Communism, specifically those in the Philippines, Thailand and Malaya. This would seem to be even more important than wooing the Indonesians with the gift of West New Guinea.
Until recently our failure to have any firm policy concerning Southeast Asia must have discouraged active opposition to Red aggression. Now that we have taken stands in Viet Nam and Thailand we can expect more cooperation and enthusiasm. We also can hope for a more concerted effort on the part of the British to determine just where their own future lies—with expanded trade with the Red Chinese or in building up the free nations of Southeast Asia.
SEATO should most definitely be reorganized. It has no strength and its continued existence only provides a false security that is more damaging than no organization at all.

Trend Continuing
While the figures are thus a bit out of date, population experts are convinced that this trend, reflected in the 1960 census, is continuing.
The largest single age group in 1960 consisted of children under 1 year old—1,144,187 in all.
Out of a national population of just under 35,000,000, there were 16,745,849 in the 15-and-under bracket—48 per cent.
Mexico's population growth rate of about 3.5 per cent a year is among the five largest in the world and is considerably more than the Latin American average of 2.5 per cent.

Deadly Infiltration

Indonesia Keeping Pressure On Dutch Officials in New Guinea

BY DAVID L. BOWEN
"If they would only stop and fight we could handle them easily."
That wistful remark was made last week in the village of Mamoer in West New Guinea by a Dutch colonel pausing briefly on an inspection tour of Royal Dutch Marines engaged in deadly hide-and-seek warfare with Indonesian paracommandos.
Following the pattern of the world's most recent brush-fire wars, this one is being fought according to the guerrilla handbook. The invading Indonesians—last reported to number some 400 and referred to as "volunteers" in Jakarta—arrived by parachute in small groups. They have not set up conventional supply lines, nor do they wage a broad offensive. They hit and run.
Armed Civilians
According to Royal Dutch Marine Col. G. K. R. De Roos only some are soldiers. Others, he says, are armed civilians who don't fight but "want to stay at liberty to work on the Papuans to stir them up and to have them rise up at the right time so they all can attack us."
The New Guinea jungle, mountainous and matted with thick undergrowth below tall trees, provides ideal cover for guerrillas.
"Our men could pass right by a dozen Indonesian paratroopers and they would never see them," said Col. De Roos.
The Indonesian strategy seems to be to drop in more and more bands of guerrillas to thoroughly disrupt Dutch control, isolate the Dutch in villages and then attack the villages one by one. They have started on areas farthest from the Dutch strongpoints at Hollandia and Biak, and closest to their own neighboring islands. An Indonesian officer, referring to the recent airdrops, said last week in Jakarta, "This is just the beginning of a bigger push."

Both the United States and the United Nations have been working strenuously for months to prevent the very type of bloody escalation which now appear to be taking place in West New Guinea.
Dutch Contention
Ever since Indonesia was granted independence from the Netherlands in 1949 it has maintained that West New Guinea belongs to it. The Dutch counter that the 800-mile long western half of the island, which they call Papua, was never part of the Indonesian archipelago. Australia administers the eastern half of the island.
The Dutch freely admit they have no intention of holding onto New Guinea forever. The problem, now being complicated with bloodshed, boils down to how they can turn loose gracefully. They insist they will be happy to leave when Papua can be run for and by the Papuans themselves. They have said they would agree to a plebiscite under United Nations auspices to permit the 700,000 natives to choose their own future.

Last week U. N. Secretary General U Thant appealed to the Dutch and Indonesians to return to the conference table on the basis of proposals put forth by U. S. diplomat Ellsworth Bunker.
The Bunker proposals, as published at The Hague, call for transfer of New Guinea's administration to a U. N.-appointed government and then to Indonesian control after two years. They also call for an eventual plebiscite for the Papuan population to decide whether they want to be Indonesian territory or otherwise.
As the diplomatsicker, the jungle war gets hotter.

Looking Backward

Call for 20th State Regiment

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for May 29, 1862.
The President of the United States has called upon Wisconsin for another regiment of Volunteers to join the army of our nation.
The army of the rebellious States has been driven back on many points; they have been beaten in many a hard-fought battle; yet, while the end of this rebellion seems to be approaching, under the firm grasp of our government, every foot of ground is being contested as our forces advance and guerrilla hands swarm over portions of restored territory.
Hence, the President deems it necessary to increase the army. His appeal will not be in vain. The more speedily the additional force is raised, the sooner the rebellion will be suppressed.
Men of Wisconsin! I appeal to you to come forward and rally round the flag of our country for its aid and support and for the aid and support of our brothers now in arms against the fierce and desperate battalions of the enemy.
Wisconsin has stood nobly by the old flag, 24,000 of her sons have voluntarily gone forward in support of the Union and the Constitution. They call for aid through the President. Let them not be disappointed.
Recruiting officers will be appointed without delay for the 20th regiment of Wisconsin Volunteers. Persons desiring such appointments or information concerning recruiting regulations will apply to this department.
Maj. Gen. Halleck also has authority from the War Department to fill up his regiments. Recruiting officers will be sent here from the Wisconsin Regiments in the Army of the Mississippi and an opportunity thus will be given to join regiments already in the field.

I trust that these regiments will be speedily filled and their thinned ranks be completed and made effective.

Russians Appear To be Aiding U. S. Contain Red China

BY WALTER LIPPMANN
There is not likely to be any serious controversy in this country about supplying food to the hungry Chinese. There is a great surplus of food here and the stories of hunger and misery have aroused immediately the old American feeling for the Chinese people. Our disputes with the Communist regime and its virulent campaign of hatred have covered, but they have by no means extinguished, the sympathy, one might also say the affectionate prejudice, that goes back to the days of the clipper ships and the missionaries and the exchange students. This country is able and willing to help and few if any among us are willing to exploit the misery as a weapon in the political conflict. Mercy and charity, we feel, are their own best reward.

Lippmann

There is, however, some discussion as to whether we should take the initiative, whether we should offer to sell and give food to China, or whether we should wait for an invitation from the Red Chinese government. The position at the moment is that at last week's press conference the President all but invited the Chinese government to send us an invitation. His intentions could be made clearer through diplomatic channels. But the President can hardly offer food to the mainland Chinese government unless he knows that the offer will not be rebuffed.

Ways to Feed Them

This does not mean that we would let the hungry starve unless the Chinese government comes to us hat in hand. There are other ways of organizing relief which do not require direct dealing between Peiping and Washington. The relief could be done by an international organization, perhaps by an agency of the United Nations operating through the International Red Cross, to which the United States could contribute food for the mainlands as we are already contributing food for the refugees in Hong Kong.
It may be that the agricultural disaster and the industrial slowdown are producing so much chaos and resistance that radical changes in the external relations of China will follow. We do not know enough about all this to reach a reliable judgment, and it is only prudent to assume that at whatever cost in human misery, the Red regime will ride out the trouble. It is safest to suppose that China is in a phase of its revolution similar to that which Russia was in during the twenties. If so, China will for some time be hostile to all its neighbors while it is engaged in a ruthless struggle to make its economy a growing concern.
If this is correct, it is useless to woo Peiping or to threaten it.

It will not be deflected by the wooing and it will only be made more violent by being threatened. The right policy is to contain Red China to prevent it from expanding and to avoid provoking it. It may be many years before China has evolved to a point where a different relationship is possible.
Our own China policy has matured during the past ten years. For one thing, we have given up the notion that mainland China is going to be reconquered by an offensive staged from Formosa. That standing provocation has been reduced to zero, and the Administration has every intention, I believe, of keeping it at zero. Secondly, we have learned the lesson of Gen. MacArthur's disastrous march to the Yalu River in the Korean war, which is that the Red Chinese will react violently and convulsively to the presence of United States military power on their frontier.
Seek Neutral Laos
We are now applying what we learned in Korea to what confronts us in Laos. We had scrapped the notion, long cherished in some Washington circles, that Laos could and should be made into an American "bastion" up against the Chinese frontier. We are now ready to settle for a neutral Laos, which does not mean a Laos with the government that is mathematically equidistant between Sen. Goldwater and Mao-tse-tung. It means rather a Laos which tries to avoid tangling alliances and to live a quiet life.
The changes in our own policy are running parallel with changes in the relation between Red China and India on the one hand and between Red China and the Soviet Union on the other. This change manifested itself last autumn in the UN debate about the admission of Red China. We had in it a comfortable majority which felt as we do, not on the question of seating Red China but, on our refusal to expel Nationalist China.
Even more importantly, the change is manifesting itself in Southeast Asia. The striking and extraordinary feature of the situation there is that we are dealing with the Soviet Union, which is about as far away from Southeast Asia as we are, rather than with Red China which is on the frontier. It looked very much as if the Russians were acting in this area in order that they, and not the Red Chinese, should play the deciding role in dealing with us.
Want No Conflict
There is fair reason to suppose that the Russians are working to prevent a Chinese-American conflict which could lead to war. In such a war they would be faced with the choice of abandoning their ally or of fighting the United States. In order to prevent such a war they seem to be using such influence as they have, which is not omnipotent, to further the neutralization of Laos, and eventually of all the southern borderlands facing Red China. It is not unimportant, it seems to me, that they are even preparing to sell MIGs on easy terms to India, which is struggling to contain the expansion of Red China.
So it may not be going too far to say that under the pressure of Chinese expansionary actions—in the north against the Soviet Union, against India in the south, and against Southeast Asia—there is coming into being a de facto coalition to contain the expansion.

'Brains,' Leaders in Same Group

Hard Work, Responsibility Are Characteristics of Top Seniors

BY ALICE FULTON

Spring is a time for graduation, and a time for recognition of seniors who have excelled in some way throughout school. Almost every issue of the city and school papers carries articles on students who reached the top scholastically, received scholarships, community awards or other honors.

Many parents assume such students are gifted. Students themselves envision the "brain" pouring over books, or ignoring studies for organizational activities.

Interviews with top students at Appleton Senior High disprove such ideas. The students with top grades and the students with fine records in school and community affairs are largely one and the same group.

The reason for this combination is work which eats up most of the student's hours outside of school. An average of four hours of study a night is not unusual, and this time is often doubled on weekends.

Non-Academic Activities

Many of these students spend an hour or so after school three or four nights a week for clubs, Church and YMCA activities, athletic practice play or dance rehearsals, debate, "Talisman," the school newspaper, and "Clarion," the annual, demand more time on

Appleton Youths Pay in Village Municipal Court

LITTLE CHUTE — Two brothers were sentenced by Anton Jansen, municipal justice of the peace Thursday one for reckless driving and for having beer in the car and the second for having beer in a car with minors present.

Allen R. Jesse, 17, 2530 Lynndale Drive, Appleton, had his driver's license suspended for six months and paid court costs for reckless driving and having beer in the car. His brother, William G. Jesse, 19, same address, was fined $25 for having beer in a car with minors present.

The youths were arrested after police noted their car being driven in a reckless manner during the Memorial Day observance when many children were on the street.

What is their motivation? All of them readily concede the influence of the home. Most of them describe their parents as open-minded people who value education highly and have passed on that value to their children.

Their parents also have expected and encouraged them to stretch their abilities. However, few of them forced their children to study or enter activities.

Significantly few of the students mentioned superior intelligence as mark of the top student. All of them emphasized the desire to learn for learning's sake. They studied hard not for grades but out of interest in the subject. When the subject bored them they worked under the pressure of college requirements, and achievement.

A sense of accomplishment and service and social stimulation motivated most of the leaders into club activities. They wanted the experience in both practical and social fields which clubs and community affairs gave them.

Whether you explain it by home environment, educational system, inherent ability, or a combination of these, somehow the top student has kept alive a desire for knowledge and accepted his responsibility to society.

XHS Students Honored For Latin Test Scores

Xavier High School students have been honored for achieving high scores on the Auxilium Latinum National Latin Test.

Four received pins and superlative ratings for scoring more than 120 points. Winning this distinction were Mary Kay Gorski, a two-time winner, Patricia Hein, Janet Grignon and Ann Wilcox.

Of the 217 students who took the test, 90 received certificates of honor for having achieved a score of from 90 to 120 points.

Former Appleton Man Asks Help on Book of Civil War History

A former Appleton man now living in New York City is seeking information about drummer boys and water boys of the Civil War for a book he is planning.

Lee Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hamilton, 1120 E. Nevada St., Appleton, has selected the drummer boy and water boys as the subject of his book because little has been written about them.

Hamilton is a graduate of Appleton High School, received his bachelor's degree at the University of Wisconsin and his master's degree at Boston University. He is now assistant science editor of the Junior Scholastic Magazine.

He belongs to the Abraham

Lincoln Association of Springfield Ill. and Boston Mass. and is a board member of the Civil War Centennial Commission of Washington D.C.

He is interested in photographs, letters, dated newspaper articles or other material on the boys with the correct names, ages, companies served with and the villages and counties from which they originated included if possible.

Foxes Rally For 7-6 Win

End Burlington Series Tonight, Return Home Sunday Afternoon

BURLINGTON, Ia. — Dan Markowski and Manager Cal Ripken slammed a run-scoring double to right-center and Ripken doubled to center for the decisive tally. The Foxes scored four times in the first inning on a walk to John Price, singles by Litchfield, Markowski and Ripken, a pass to Charlie Bree and a single by Jack Seymour.

The Foxes won their series here tonight before returning to Goodland Field Sunday afternoon to begin a 6-game home stand.

Three Midwest League baseball teams — Quincy, Decatur and Waterloo — will make their first Goodland Field appearances in a 6-day Fox Cities Foxes home stand, which starts Sunday afternoon.

Booster games and other special events are planned for five of the six days.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, the Foxes meet Quincy's Jets in the "Valley Fair Shopping Center" booster game. Tickets (available at Valley Fair) plus a 25-cent per-person service charge will admit fans to the game. The booster game sponsors announce that surprises are in store for fans.

Monday night, the Foxes and the Jets will meet again in a game set aside especially for women fans and youngsters. Women will be admitted to the 8 p.m. game for a 25-cent service charge. "Knot-hole gang" members will be admitted with their Optimist club cards, plus 5 cents.

(In case of a Sunday rain-out, the Valley Fair booster session will take place Monday in the form of a doubleheader, starting at 6:30 p.m.).

Tuesday's opener with Decatur has been designated as Fox River Paper Company night.

The rain date for the "Fox River Paper" night is Wednesday. A doubleheader between the Giants and the Foxes will start at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in case of a Tuesday postponement. Otherwise, a single game is set for 8 p.m.

The Thursday night opener of the Waterloo - Fox Cities series has been dedicated to Black Creek's centennial celebration. A large group of Black Creek fans, including "The Brothers of the Brush" and "The Sisters of the Swish" is scheduled to be on hand.

"Father and Son" night will be held Friday. Fathers and their sons will be admitted to the Foxes-Hawks game for 50 cents and 10 cents, respectively.

Menasha's Kenney Beats Kablitz In Biggest Net Tourny Upset

NEENAH — Menasha sophomore Pat Kenney pulled the biggest upset of the WIAA state tennis tournament by eliminating No. 1-seeded Dave Kablitz of Manitowoc, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, in their quarterfinals here Friday afternoon.

Going into this morning's semifinal round, Whitefish Bay and Manitowoc were tied for first place with 19 points. Janesville had 18, Menasha 17 and Neenah 13.

Kenney is Menasha's lone survivor. Whitefish Bay is in the best position with its doubles and one singles remaining. Manitowoc has its doubles team only. Janesville a singles player and Neenah its doubles entry of Dick Diederich and Dick Rogness.

Kenney was to meet Bill Burns of Whitefish Bay in his semifinal match while No. 2-seeded Mickey Szilagyi of Nicolet was paired against Tom Wurtz of Janesville.

Semi-Final Matches In doubles play, Manitowoc was to meet Neenah and Oshkosh faces Whitefish Bay. Oshkosh, the defending tournament champion, sectional, and cannot repeat. Kenney, the son of Menasha Jerry Bean, One of the Fox Cities Foxes' most effective starters, will see action during the 6-game home stand which begins Sunday afternoon against Quincy.

FOX RIVER VALLEY LEAGUE

W L Pct. GB

Fond du Lac 2 0 .667 0

Menasha 2 0 .667 0

Green Bay 1 1 .500 1

Sunday's Games:

Fond du Lac at Menasha.

Freedom at Kaukauna.

Green Bay at L.C.K.

Fond du Lac and Menasha, two of the three front runners in the Fox River Valley League, will clash in Menasha Sunday in the feature tussle of the 4-game slate.

The remaining co-leader, Freedom, will be at Kaukauna. Harrison will play at Morrison and Green Bay will travel to Kimberly to battle the LC-K Papermakers.

Menasha has triumphed over Kaukauna and Little Chute-Kimberly, while Fond du Lac holds victories over Green Bay and Morrison thus far in the young season.

Pittler Vs. Meyer Both teams will probably have their pitching aces geared for the game. Bob Pittler, who pitched a no-hitter in the season opener, should be set for Fond du Lac, and Jim Meyer is the probable hurler for Menasha.

Freedom has beaten winless clubs in the first two weeks of play and will run into another winless club this weekend in Kaukauna.

Green Bay and LC-K both have 1-1 records. Green Bay has lost to Fond du Lac and has beaten Kaukauna. LC-K has beaten Harrison but lost to Freedom.

Short on pitching when the season began with top winner Jim Grant in the Army, Gary Bell still bothered by a tender arm and Jim Perry ineffective in spring training, McGaha shifted here, shuffled there and came up with a workable staff.

McGaha, at 35 the youngest manager in the league, sent Perry to the bullpen, brought him along slowly and currently has the 25-year-old right-hander in the regular rotation. Friday night Perry came up with his best performance, a four-hit job for a 7-1 victory over Detroit.

Turns Down Offer McGaha turned down an offer from the pro football Los Angeles Rams after he was graduated from Arkansas, signed on with the New York Knickerbockers, then left the pro cage came to devote his fulltime efforts to playing baseball. The 1948 bus crash, injuring his shoulder, stopped that.

Now he's back in the game, tapped with the job of getting the Indians out of the woods. Dick Donovan has become his workhorse with an 8-1 record. Grant is 3-0 as a spot starter and Perry finally seems to be responding to the McGaha treatment.

The victory left the Indians lead at one game over the New York Yankees, who defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-2 behind Ralph Terry's four-hitter. The Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings. Washington nipped Minnesota 4-3 in 12 innings on Chuck Hinton's homer and Kansas City thumped Boston 9-2.

Perry (4-2) didn't allow a hit until Dick Brown's infield single with one out in the sixth, but lost his shutout with two out in the ninth when Norm Cash hit his 13th homer for the Tigers. Tito Francona supplied the power for the Indians with a two-run double in the first and a two-run single in the eighth. The loser was Frank Lary (1-3).

Pitching at Los Angeles before the largest crowd in the AL this season—51,584—Terry (6-4) struck out eight and walked only two. Lee Thomas drove in both Angels' runs with a single and homer. The Yanks tagged 10 hits off no-hit pitcher Bo Belinsky (6-2), who also hit two batters, made two wild pitches and committed two errors. Bill Skowron had a two-run single his ninth homer.

Los Angeles' Bob Shaw, who won his eighth, although he needed help from Larry Sherry, and drove in three runs with a double in the sixth. Fairly extended his hitting string to 15 games with a homer. Bob Wine had a homer in each game for the losers.

The big play, however, was a Willie Davis' exhibition of speed.

stole second and scored on a bad hop single by Charlie Smith. Two other scratch hits—a pop fly double by Robinson and a bloop single by Sam Esposito—drove in the other Chicago runs. The Orioles had tied it in the ninth on singles by Jim Gentile, Jack Brandt and Ron Hansen, but were stopped after that by Turk Lown (1-1).

Shut out on three hits for seven innings by Senators' starter Dave Stenhouse, the Twins used two walks and run-scoring singles by Hal Naragon, Bernie Allen and George Banks to tie it, Hinton's homer finally won it, giving the victory to Ray Rippelmeier (1-1) and tagging Jim Donohue (1-1) from the setback.

Norm Siebern's 4-for-5 performance paced the A's offense that made it easy for Dave Wickham, winning his sixth in a row after losing his first. Siebern hit two singles, a double and a triple, driving in three runs and scoring three. Don Schwall (1-6) lost.

You Think That Your Garage Gets Crowded

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Ever since he was a boy Ed Love had wanted a pipe organ.

Now he has one, built into his garage. Five sets of pipes are operated by a two-horsepower blower.

There are 345 pipes and the variety of sounds is wide. There's a fire siren, a bird whistle, a surf sound, bass drum, snare drum, tambourine, castanets and cymbals. It even has a wooden block which can produce the "clomp-clomp" of horses trotting.

The family's two cars? "They are out front," Love admits.

Increase Seen In Rates at County Home

Winnebago Board Will Make Study At Pleasant Acres

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County Board may be asked to increase monthly rates at the county's Pleasant Acres Home.

The board of trustees will study the rate structure and bring in its recommendation to the institutions committee, it was decided Friday at a meeting of the trustees and committee.

Present rates are $110 a month for minimum care patients, $135 a month for moderate care and $160 a month for maximum care patients.

The biggest concern was in the maximum care patient class but Supv. Oliver Thomson, Neenah, said he felt if there was to be an increase it should be a small one in each classification instead of one big increase in one class.

At Capacity
William Vogel, superintendent of Pleasant Acres and the county hospital, reported both facilities were operating at just about capacity.

Pleasant Acres presently has 113 residents with a capacity of 118. But, Vogel said, there is a waiting list of maximum care patients.

The county hospital has 358 patients and had a maximum of 372 in February. Capacity of the hospital is 371 but eight beds must be held open for emergencies, Vogel said.

Vogel also reported there is now 24 hour licensed practical nurse service at the home and that two of the aides at the hospital have completed a state training program and will, in turn, start an in-service program at the hospital.

The committee also decided to investigate any future plans of Oshkosh extending its water mains to the county hospital and home.

Texas Voters at Primary Polls

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas Democrats decide today whether they want a New Frontiersman as their nominee for governor or a man who disagrees with some administration programs.

The race also has strong liberal vs. conservative aspects as well as being pegged to some largely state issues.

The candidates are Don Yarborough, 37, who says he is for President Kennedy's measures without reservation, and John Connally, 45, the administration's first secretary of the Navy, who opposes some pet Kennedy projects.

Yarborough needs to pick up 113,512 votes — the number he lagged behind Connally in the first primary May 5 out of 1,449,000 cast. Four other candidates at that primary were eliminated.

Against Yarborough's protests, most voters consider him the liberal because he supports the New Frontier and because the majority of labor leaders endorse him.

Braggs-Armstrong Bout Called Off

Left-Handed Dentists Set For Practice

BALTIMORE (AP) — Here they come, world. Just what you've always wanted. Seven left-handed dentists.

They are among the 62 dentistry students being graduated next week by the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School, University of Maryland.

Left-handed dentists previously have been scarce. There is a good reason. Dental equipment until recently was manufactured exclusively for right-handers. This meant the left-hander had to straddle the spitting bowl to get at his patient. Other instruments turned the wrong way, too.

Above Average
Prof. Gardner Foley of the dentistry school has no explanation for the high ratio of left-handers at his school. It is about twice the national average.

"Coincidence, I guess," he says. Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Mets baseball club, has been the most famous aspirant for left-handed dentistry. And he quit in midseason to become a professional baseball player.

Lou Little, former football coach at Columbia University, is another who turned to another field after seeing the difficulties of operating from the south side of the dental chair.

Prof. Foley says the days when left-handed dentists are rare may be about over. Manufacturers have started producing entire sets of equipment for them, and the cost isn't any higher.

Board Member Not Running

Kimberly President Won't See Term on Education Group

KIMBERLY — Norbert Vanevenhoven, president of the board of education, has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election when his present term expires July 23.

Vanevenhoven served one 1-year term and one 3-year term on the board. He was first elected when the board membership was increased from three to five members. Hal Wenzel, clerk of the board, has announced his intention to seek re-election as Kimberly representative. Wenzel is second vice president of the State School Board Association.

Thus two Kimberly board members are to be elected in addition to one representative from Combined Locks for a 3-year term and one representative from rural township areas for a 2-year term.

Must File

Candidates planning to seek election must file their intention to run with the school clerk by July 3. Election will take place in the entrance to the Kimberly High School gym from 3 to 8 p.m. on the day of the annual school meeting.

Other school board members at present are Richard Hollihan and James Kluge who have one year remaining on their terms and Eugene Schellhuth who has two years remaining.

Windsors Celebrate 25th Anniversary Sunday Aboard Ship

NEW YORK (AP) — At a small shipboard champagne dinner party Sunday the only king ever voluntarily to abdicate the throne of Britain and the woman for whom he did it will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

"We made it last," the Duke and Duchess of Windsor responded, almost in unison, just before embarking Friday on the liner United States for Europe. They had been asked whether they recalled predictions that their marriage would be short-lived.

On June 3, 1937, in a friend's chateau in France, the man who had ruled Britain for 324 days of Edward VIII and Wallis Simpson were married.

He gave up the crown and an income of more than $3 million a year to marry the twice-divorced American commoner. His love brought him a life of wandering from one fashionable location to another—Paris, the Riviera and New York—punctuated only rarely by an unofficial visit to London.

Fire of Undetermined Origin Friday night caused $30,000 to $40,000 damage at the Phoenix Furniture Corp. in Sheboygan. Fire Chief Ray Dione said the blaze started in a paint spray booth. Two firemen were slightly injured. The firm employs about 150 persons.

Ghanaians Sound Praises for Glenn, Kennedy and America

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — A new exhibition with words of praise for African rhythm bounced through for the United States and President Kennedy.

Accra's shanty night clubs this week as Ghanaian singers swung into "Go, go, go—John Glenn, he said it so."

Everything is go is Ghana's newest high-life number, a particular welcome to the American space capsule Friendship 7 on the first African stop in its world exhibition tour.

Glenn's spacecraft is headlining an all-out campaign to win friends for America in this neutral nation, where a strong party press sings the praises of socialism, Leninism and—most of all—Kwame Nkrumah.

Thousands streamed through an exhibition hall of the Kwame Nkrumah Institute of Pioneering Youth to see the capsule which carried America's first astronaut around the globe.

Public Response at Box Office Final
Test of Popularity of Performers

BY JINGO

The other day we were talking about the effects of bad and good publicity. There apparently are two schools of thought, but the acid test is how the public responds at the box office.

A possible answer has come into Jingo's hand recently. An examination of the 12 hottest box office attractions may shed some light on this interesting debate.

The best bet at the turnstile is Marilyn Monroe. Although M.M. has some brushes with poor press, there are certain other definite assets which she possesses that cloud the issue for our purpose.

The public's second most favorite star is Liz Taylor, which may get us closer to the truth. Rome is not Liz's first coiting of tar.

The next two favorites are Rock Hudson and Doris Day, only a slight set-back for the tar-brush school because the fifth and sixth hottest stars are Marlon Brando and Frank Sinatra.

FBI Director Warns Vacationists About Sex Crimes, Murder

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has warned the approaching vacation season is expected to bring an increase in sexual assaults and murders.

"According to established seasonal trends, forcible rape will rise approximately 16 per cent above its annual average during the next several weeks," Hoover said in his monthly message to law enforcement officials.

He said murder and aggravated assault are expected to climb 12 per cent each and a similar increase is expected in attacks on children.

The FBI director said the closing of the school year adds an extra burden to the important roles of parents and guardians in protecting children.

He said parents should warn children to avoid secluded spots, refuse rides and reject gifts from strangers.

Mason Raps Divorce Mill In TV Repeat

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Perry Mason repeats its first show of the '59-'60 season, so it's practically three years old and perhaps you've forgotten it. The case is simple and straightforward, dealing with murder and fraudulent divorces.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — Tales of Wells Fargo, which has no anti-violence convictions, spices up its routine Western story with plenty of violence this week. This is the standard tale of the honest banker who gets into financial problems, hires an outlaw to help him with a get-rich-quick robbery and lives (or dies) to regret it. Jeff Morrow is this character, who makes the mistake of dynamiting a Wells Fargo safe and thus has Dale Robertson on his trail. (Color)

7-7:30 (Channel 11) — Room For One More is a joke built around a double entendre. Two events spice up a day for the Rose family—Daddy (Andrew Duggan) shoots a hole-in-one and Jeff (Timothy Rooney) meets a lovely voice when he gets a wrong number. To find the girl, Jeff advertises, which brings a reporter to the house. Robert Q. Lewis plays the reporter, and he meets Daddy who naturally thinks the press is interested in his athletic prowess.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — Poor Beaver (Jerry Mathers) keeps getting into trouble on Leave It to Beaver because he's a good guy. This time, he and three of his buddies buy some sweatshirts with monsters on them. And they cow to wear them to school. Of course, all four sets of parents flatly refuse to let their sons appear at school dressed in those hideous garments.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — The Defenders begins its summer of repeats by giving us another look at its pilot film, the only one in the series which was made in Hollywood. This stars Clu Gulager as a drug addict (he became addicted when he was wounded in Korea) who killed a man during a robbery.

8-10:15 (Channel 4-5) — A 1960 World War II adventure story, "Halls of Montezuma," is this week's repeat offering on Saturday Night At the Movies. Richard Widmark, Jack Palance, Karl Malden and Richard Boone are among those present. (Color)

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — Tonight's Have Gun, Will Travel was made only a few weeks ago, and had been destined for next season. But, when a show set for last week was pulled out (it dealt with mental health and was deemed objectionable by some), the sponsor refused to permit a repeat in the schedule so this one was dropped in. It's typical Paladine fare, with Richard Boone hired by a crippled old man (Jay Novello) to find a completely evil man (Will Corry) so that he may be destroyed.
